

[24/06/22][03:56:02] -

Title: Ways of The Wicked
Author: Lady LaBelle Decantor

Wicked are the ways of some, whom care not a slight for another. In lust and greed do they dwell, stealing the very bread they revenge for each meal. Unhumbled by the birdsong, seeing no sweetness in a child's smile, these foes hold within them a heart of blackness. Lithe is their gait, be wary though they are quick. With cunning charm and fictitious pleasantry will they creep their way into your path, bringing pain and sorrow in route. Steer clear if you can, or risk being swept away and under some dark treachery. So very wicked are their ways.

Copy printed
1-5-2003

Original Script
11-20-2002